LOCATION #1: APPETIZER

Your season of singleness is an opportunity to invest more time into your relationship with God. Your relationship with God is based on the way you think about Him. So, let's take some time to see where you are at in your relationship with Him.

Answer these questions below:

Describe the relationship you have with God. Are you connected, tight, sporadic, intimate, reserved, distant, etc?

What thoughts do you have about God?

Describe the kind of relationship you would like to have with God.

What would you have to do in order to create that kind of relationship?

What thoughts would you need to think about God to do that?

LOCATION #2: MAIN COURSE

Often during singleness one can struggle to believe that God is for them and taking care of them. Singleness can struggle with trusting God and seeing a purpose in their season of singleness. And can struggle to believe that God is good and taking care of them while He still hasn't given them the desires of their heart. Often single people think they are being punished or they have done something wrong to not get what they really want. Let's see what is in the way of you believing He is in control, He is for you, and He has what is best in His timing.

Write what comes up for you when you think God hasn't given you the desires of your heart.

"Be not ye therefore like unto them: for your Father knoweth what things ye have need of, before ye ask him." - Matthew 6:8 If God knows what you need, then what could you think about Him not giving you the desires of your heart?

What thoughts prevent you from loving God?

What would it look like to trust Him with this desire, that He gave you in the first place?

What would it look like to love and trust God during this wanting and not getting season?

LOCATION #3: DESSERT

Spending time with God is a great way to continue to develop that relationship. Pick two ways and intentionally invest in your relationship with Him right now.
